Brass Turn-ins

- Expended Brass Certifications:
 - No margin for error. Must be 100% accurate.
 - Vast majority of certifications are accurate.
 - DLA DS is not authorized to open packages/crates boxes after units certify.
 - During last 3 shipments, buyer has received items certified as expended smalls brass but was actually other INERT munitions components.

DLA-DS / RECYCLING

- Improper Inert Certifications:
 - Result in monetary claim by contractor against U.S. Government.
 - Casts doubt on reliability of INERT Certifications on remaining property.
 - Results in personnel making site visit to contractor's site to validate claim.
 - .50 Cal. brass must be separated from other brass.

Correct way to prep turn-in

Notice that banding is around the pallet as well as over each row of ammo cans.
You have to secure the cans/boxes.

Incorrect way to prep turn-in

The brass is protruding out of the box on top of the pallet. You have to be able to secure the box so that no one can tamper with the brass once it is certified and verified.

DLA-DS / RECYCLING

Correct way to prep turn-in

Banded so that you are unable to remove any of the brass once certified and verified.

Incorrect way to prep turn in

Unsecured ammo cans/boxes.
